

Pearl Wymarra

About: Time; Place; People; Love; Joy and Peace

The presentation will tell the story of the models of unconditional love which the presenter saw demonstrated by her parents and community in her place of upbringing and how this established a firm foundation for her life away from that place of upbringing. It will also include reflections on her search for the demonstration of the same models elsewhere.

Spiritual health is a key focus of this presentation as the presenter believes that this is the secret of how we find love, joy and peace.

Pearl Wymarra was born at Old Mapoon Presbyterian Mission in North Queensland. Her parents Nicholas and Marjorie Wymarra had ten children and later adopted and raised another child. Pearl's Primary School education was on Thursday Island and her Secondary School education was at Charters Towers, Brisbane and Penrith.

She has a Diploma of Primary Education and a Masters of Health Science (Primary Health Care) and is an Honorary Fellow of the University of Western Sydney.

Her professional teaching experience range from primary school to university.

Project Officer for Emotional Health and Social Well – Being is her current position and this is based at the Wentworth Area Health Service in New South Wales.

Pearl is a grandmother and lives in Penrith, New South Wales.